Go to File -> Settings -> Help -> Support (or something like that). In the text window, put the executable file named "AUCTecn" (without quotation marks) in the location you have chosen before. A: After hours of searching and trying out different things, I was able to download the full version of this tool. It is called "EVEREST" and it is on the Autodesk website. On a side note, it is quite difficult to work with. I am new to AutoCAD. I spent about 12-14 hours trying out different things and it still wouldn't work for me. So please read the documentation and read up on what you need before trying to use it. The Syrian regime does not want Americans to know about the extent of its atrocities. Given the fact that the Obama administration has killed more Syrians than all previous American presidents combined, it would be fair to wonder why Americans don't know about the killing of countless innocents in Syria. Since the start of the civil war in Syria in 2011, the Obama administration has killed more than 60,000 Syrians, including 4,000 children, according to recent figures compiled by the Syrian Center for Policy Research. Obama has killed more Syrians than the nine past American presidents combined, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Investigative Journalism. To be clear, no one disputes that people from both sides of the Syrian conflict have been killed by the regime. The problem is that the Obama administration claims that the regime killed 4,000 children. However, the body count of Syrian children killed by the regime may be much higher. For example, the Syrian Center for Policy Research estimates that as many as 12,000 children have been killed by Assad's regime since 2011. There is no reason to think that this number is too high. An investigative team by the United Nations has also revealed that more than 500 children have been killed by the regime. Obama administration officials have also said that the United States has killed 1,000 to 3,000 terrorists in Syria since 2011. This figure has not been independently verified. In any event, the Obama administration says that the greatest threat to the United States is the Islamic State (ISIS) and other al-Qaeda affiliates in Syria. "Assad has stepped up
