Then they can apply these skills to the next project. This approach to project management is called. Kaplan "the project life cycle." (M, p. 10) Students in year 1995 have changed. Fewer are from the suburbs like they did in years past. Instead, more students come from urban areas. Black Americans and Hispanics are also changing, due to population growth and changing job opportunities.

The 1990 census showed that the average household size has decreased by one person every four years.
